

Deskhand

Deskhand drafts replies to your support tickets

Each reply links every claim to the order or help article it came from.

Support leads need to trust a reply before it goes out

Deskhand is for online shops with one to ten support agents. Each draft shows the order or help article behind every fact.

01

One ticket shows how a reply gets made

Ticket #2291: a lamp arrived cracked, and the customer wants a refund.

Ticket #2291 gets a cited reply in one view

#2291 Priya N.

The Orla lamp arrived with a cracked base. Can I get a refund?

Draft reply

Hi Priya, sorry the lamp arrived cracked. Damaged items are refunded in full,¹ so no need to send it back. I've set up a refund of $84.00 for order #48213.² It reaches your card in 3 to 5 business days.³

Refund $84 is over your $50 limit. Approve and send

1 Returns and refunds
Damaged in transit: full refund, no return.

2 Order #48213
Orla table lamp, $84.00

3 Payments
Refunds reach the card in 3 to 5 business days.

The message, three sources, the cited draft and the approval bar on one screen.

¹ Capture of the Deskhand demo page, Brand Studio showcase, 25 Sep 2026

Deskhand reads three sources, then writes a cited reply

1 Deskhand brand contract: how chapter

An $84 refund over your limit waits for your approval

$84

Refund drafted for ticket #2291, a lamp that arrived cracked

Deskhand writes the reply and holds it until you approve and send.

¹ Sample ticket from the Deskhand brand contract; the data is fictional

You set the refund limit, and chargebacks always go to a person

Where a ticket goes, by refund amount and type

Deskhand sends

- Replies with a refund at or under your limit
- Replies with no refund

Waits for you

- Refunds over your limit
- Every chargeback

Deskhand

Next step: try Deskhand free for 14 days

After the trial, you pay for each reply Deskhand sends.

Start a 14-day trial